

Application Prompt

For this application, we are asking you to showcase your ability to embrace and understand complex challenges and show us your thinking and problem-solving skills. You have the choice to submit your response to one of these two prompts:

---

Option 1

Please share a project or initiative that you have led or contributed to that demonstrates your ability to address complexity and ambiguity related to a particular challenge.

Your submission should clearly explain:

- The problem you are addressing
- Why this problem is important to you
- The process you followed
- The impact of your project or initiative
- Key lessons learned

Option 2

Share with us a project that you would hope to complete in the future. Your submission should address an existing complex challenge that you are passionate about and should demonstrate your unique skills and ability to address the problem.

Your submission should clearly explain:

- The problem you are addressing
- Why this problem is important to you
- The process you would take to address it
- The intended impact of the project
- Key lessons you hope to learn

General Guidelines

We know that everyone communicates differently and we want to ensure that you have the flexibility to prepare your submission in the format of your choice. We also anticipate receiving a large number of submissions for this year's Designership.

To help our team give each and every submission the time and attention it deserves, please consider the following guidelines as you prepare your submission.

To keep the process equitable, our team will be reviewing applications with personal information anonymized.
